We would also like to thank Mr. McNutt and Woodard Photography for helping us this year in making a better yearbook. We would also like to give a special thank-you to Mr. Ron Cook for showing the staff members how to take better photos and how to process the film. Mr. Cook gave up a lot of his free time to show the staff members how to develop film and how to use the cameras better. So we are really grateful to him for taking the time.

D e d i c a t i o n

The staff of the 1979 yearbook would like to express our sincere appreciation for the guidance and efforts of our yearbook advisor, Mrs. Patricia Morganti.

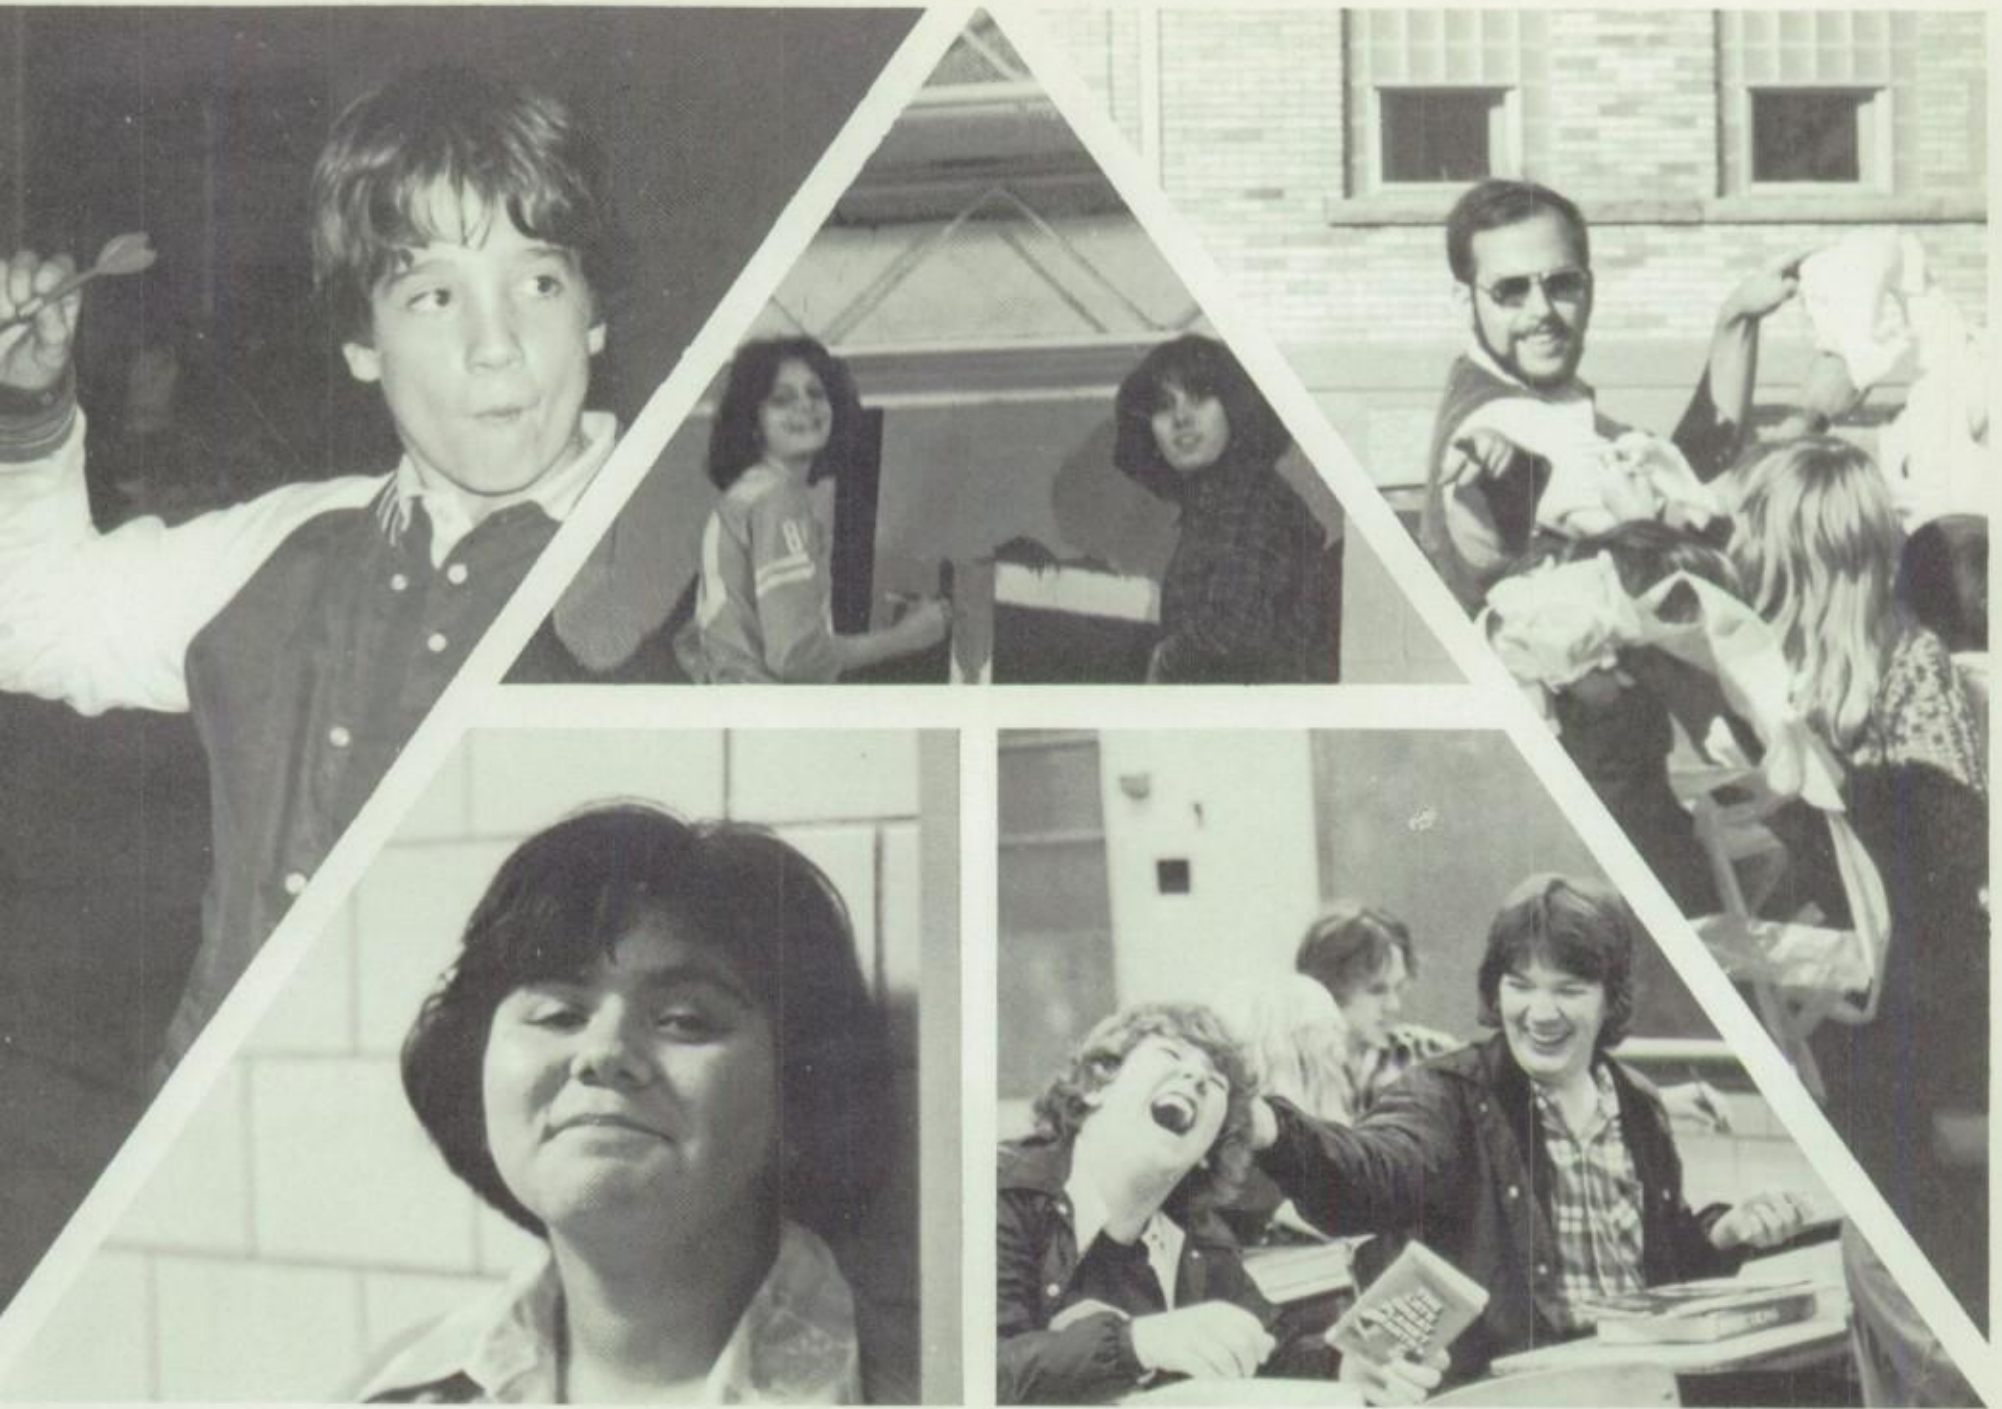

Although her recent illness has deprived us of her presence at school on a daily basis, she has continued her deep interest in the yearbook and has kept in touch with our progress. We are grateful for her interest.

Mrs. Morganti has taught at Bettsville for ten years, and those students who have been privileged to be in her classes realize how much she is missed. She has been a dedicated teacher who has always tried to bring innovative techniques into the classroom. She has also been a good friend to her students.

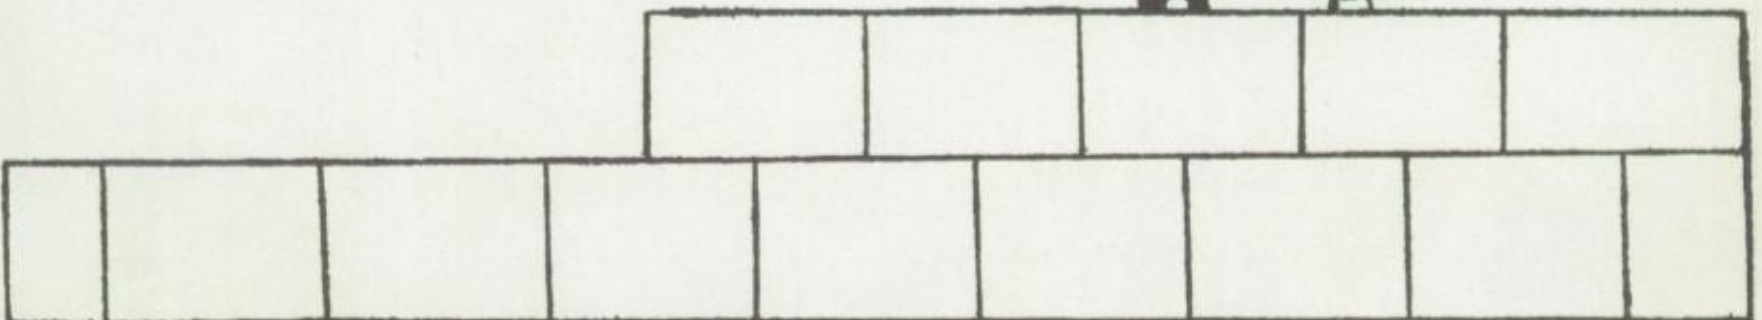

This yearbook is dedicated to Pat Morganti, and along with it comes our profound wishes for her complete recovery.

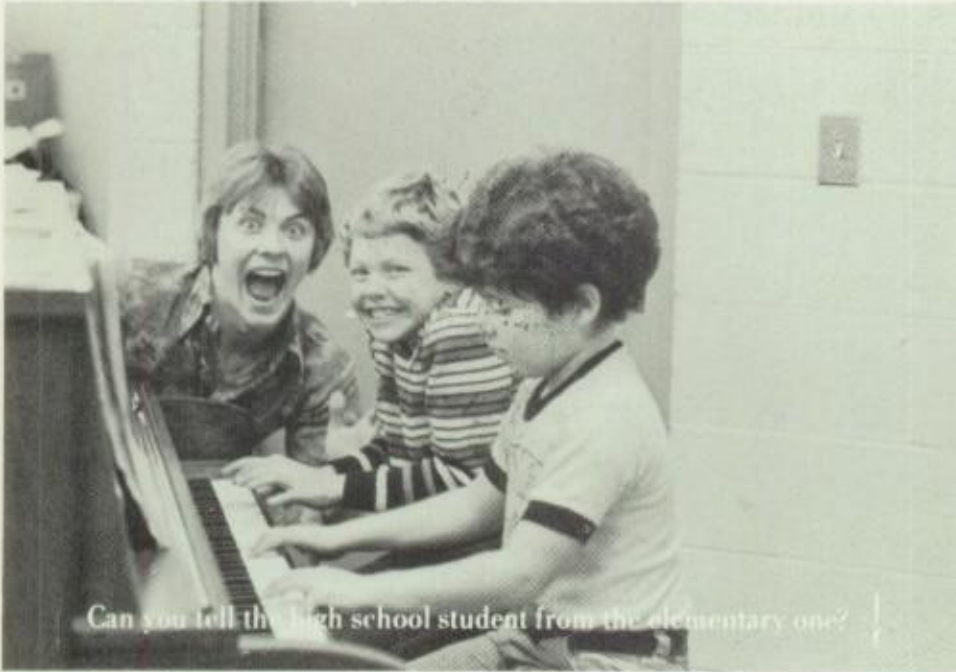

Foundations

One important part of the foundation of any student's education has to be the social interaction from kindergarten play to high school activities. During this period of time in a person's life, he builds his character and accepts responsibilities. He must plan his goals and start his foundation of the future.

Different Strokes for

The B.H.S. Seniors have made their last year very enjoyable and memorable. They finished that year on May 27, 1979. 24 seniors received their diplomas on that day.

The year has been enjoyable because the class did things together. They toured London, England and the highlights of New York City. They went to those places on March 31, 1979. Each student brought back their own memories which will continue to live on through them.

The class presented the new library with a globe with each senior's name engraved on it. This was given in memory of the 1979 class and to welcome the new library.

The main thing the juniors did this year was the planning of the Junior-Senior Prom. This is a big event during their junior year. They also sponsored the concession stand. Many of the junior students are involved in sports . . . They also do well in their studies.

Only Two More Years

What are you studying, Donny?

One of the many faces of the sophomore class.

Go Davey Go Go!

If you had to beat this drum like Todd, you would be beat also.

Throughout their years in high school, the sophomores anxiously wait for that day when they order their school rings. Well this year they finally got their chance. The sophomore class has also been working to raise money for that special day when they are seniors. They are glad they only have two more years because this class likes to have fun and they don't exactly like doing homework. This class also sponsors skating parties, dances, and coatchecks.

A feet scene.

The seventh grade class was put on a high school schedule for the first time. They have class officers and they really enjoy it. This ambitious class was the class with the most sales in the magazine contest. They had a choice of many prizes and they chose a television set. The class will raffle off the television set to add to their account. They also participated in the Turkey Raffle.

The fifth grade class has learned to multiply by playing "Multo". "Multo" is like "Bingo". Mrs. Andrews also reads the kids some very interesting books. One of these books is By the Crest Horn Spoon. Some high school students say they remember when Mrs. Andrews read to them in the fifth grade. The fifth grade class also participated in the turkey raffle and did very well.

The third graders have attempted various projects. These projects took a lot of time and the students really did their best.

For Christmas the third graders refinished old railroad spikes and painted them gold. These were to be used by the fathers as paper weights. For the mothers, they did small fry originals. These were designs which each student made up and which were then sent to a company to be transformed onto a plate as decorations. For both parents the students made splatter paintings and used them as a basis for Christmas cards. To be able to pay for these projects the third grade used the P.T.A. raffle money they received.

Later on in the year the third graders took a first aide course. This was sponsored by the American Red Cross and the Johnson and Johnson Company.

Handwriting in Second Grade centers primarily on legability and neatness. Children tend to hurry and be very careless just because they think they know how to write, but forget that writing skills apply in all areas as well as in writing class.

In the second semester we move from manuscript to cursive writing and in spite of their enthusiasm to make this move quickly, we try to guide them as carefully through this phase as we did in first learning to print.

Many times cursive writing helps overcome reversal problems and other eye/hand coordination problems some children have.

Children need to understand that readable writing is as important for expression as is vocabulary.

Oklahoma

The musical OKLAHOMA was presented on May 4th, 5th, and a matinee on the 6th. The director, Mrs. Barb Weber, tried something new by letting the understudies take the place of the regulars on the 6th. OKLAHOMA is the story of a farmer and a cowboy who fight it out over the love of a young farm girl. The setting is the western territory of Oklahoma.

Yearbook Staff is Kept Busy!

As we finish up the end of the year, the annual staff tries to construct and relive old memories. We do this by capturing experiences in photographs. We try to use the most appealing photos which would give everyone satisfaction. Also we choose the photo on how much it tells us. By that we mean how many things come to mind when we look at the photo. As the year draws to a close, several seniors on the staff dread to see that last day approach. They wish that the year would never end because this in turn means that no longer would they be rushing to finish a deadline or laying out pages. These seniors whose final year has come are Vicky Krause, Rod Bramel, Perry Mason and Jim Lang.

Award and Athletic Banquets Combined

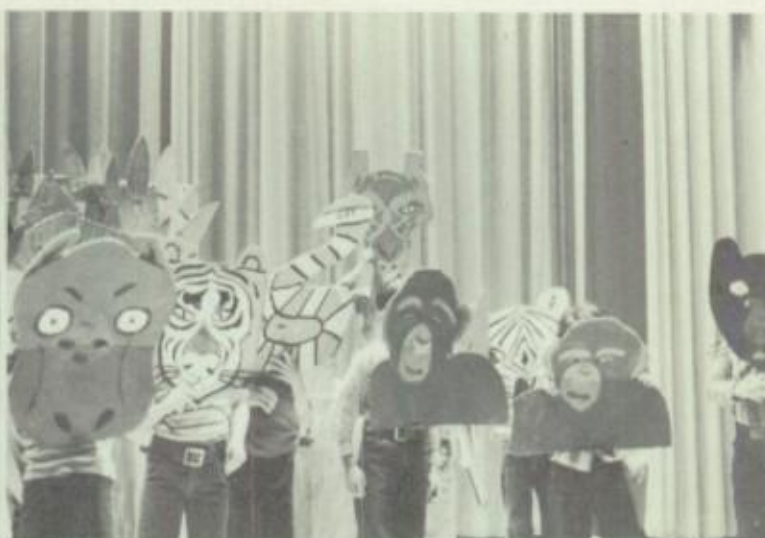

This was the first year that both the awards and the athletic banquets were combined. Many feel that this combination was a success.

The dinner was held in the grade school auditorium and the awards were presented in the high school auditorium.

The 1979 graduating class.

The 1979 seniors took their final step at B.H.S. on May 27. 24 seniors graduated on that day. Out of these 24 seniors 17 of them started kindergarten together. These seniors are the last ones to graduate in this decade.

14 of the seniors plan to continue their education. Either at a college, technical, or vocational school. The rest of the seniors intend to seek employment and raise families.
